

Morubel's environmental policy

Morubel nv aims for a continuous improvement of its achievements concerning the environment, taking into account the prevention principle, technical and technological developments, economical feasibility and community requirements. Operating by all relevant legal and prescribed environmental requirements applicable to Morubel's activities, products and services is the base.

The environmental policy aims to prevent air- and ground contamination and to reduce waste. The environmental effects that come with the use of energy, raw materials and storage of hazardous products are an important guideline to us. To implement this policy, we work according a continuous system of critical evaluation linked with a preventive mindset. This system is aimed to Morubel employees and third parties who are, for whatever occasion, linked to the company.

Morubel nv aims:

- For a continuous effort to improve the environmental performances
- To commit itself to provide the necessary information to all concerned employees within the organization
- To support and encourage participation in necessary trainings
- To assist in developing this new technology in a new green, industrial technique

Environmental care is important to all who have a leading position. The final responsibility lays with the management. The feasibility of the environmental policy is made by the commitment of all those involved.
